City of Beverly Hills Celebrates 13th Annual Earth Day on April 17

Beverly Hills, CA –Beverly Hills encourages citizens to participate in environmental sustainability at the 2016 Earth Day, set for Sun., Apr. 17. Information on eco-friendly urban living will be available, highlighting water conservation (including One-on-One consultations with the City's Water Conservation Administrator), drought tolerant gardening, sustainable food sourcing, solar power alternatives and the newly launched City bike share program.

A children's booth hosted by the Beverly Hills Public Library will have Earth Day themed story time and crafts. A mobile earthquake simulator will be on display to promote emergency preparedness. Pet adoptions and free confidential document shredding will also be on-site. Complimentary 20-pound bags of compost and water-conscious shower timers will be available while supplies last. This is a free community event for all ages.

When: Sunday, April 17, 2016, 9 a.m.-1 p.m.

Where: Beverly Hills Farmers' Market, Civic Center Dr. & 3rd St., Beverly Hills, CA 90210

Free parking available in the Civic Center parking garage located at 450 N. Rexford Drive.
